

The Western North Carolina (WNC) Regional Transit Plan (RTP)

The Western North Carolina (WNC) Regional Transit Plan (RTP) will assess existing transit services and identify opportunities to coordinate and improve services to better serve the local communities and the region at large. In addition, the RTP will assess the possibility to integrate grant management and administrative functions for the region, under one or two agencies. The goal is to provide support to local agencies managing their state and federal funds.

We need your help!! Please complete either the community survey or the rider survey, if you use public transportation, to help us better understand the needs and expectations of your community.

All responses to this survey will be recorded and used to propose recommendations to improve the transit ridership experience and advise major decisions in regards to service and funding. The survey will be open for four weeks, closing on December 1st.

Both the ridership and public surveys can be accessed and shared using the following links:
